TOPIC	DISCUSSIONS/RECOMMENDATIONS	ACTIONS TO BE TAKEN
Updates/Thoughts from CH SAG Members	CH SAG members shared “happenings” in their local communities. Karen – Rutgers School of Communication is interested in working with librarians as the next generation for consumer health and are working on recruitment to redefine librarianship. They are conducting community conversations around health and will use EBPL as a site in addition to others. Sheila – As an exhibitor on behalf of NNLM MAR at the New Jersey Association reported on the excitement of K-12 Professionals on learning (many for the first time) about all of NLM’s Science and Health Education materials. Jamie – Currently working on an NNLM MAR Award with the Suffolk County Library System to provide training after developing a curriculum to teach NLM consumer health resources to public libraries. Audra – As a NNLM MAR subcontractor spoke of the success of her award in engaging parents and families with existing programs focused on girl’s health and wellness. There are opportunities to continue this work as participants are still in touch and seek additional resources around healthy living. Ammon – As a former NNLM MAR Awardee, information on the book mobile and the success of being recognized as more than a delivery service now, with the addition of the technology to offer access to information on health and other needed topics for their user populations. There was a general consensus for the need for more resources for libraries and community agencies on the opioid crisis as it affects each of the populations.	CH SAG members will contact NNLM MAR if there is a need for mapping to appropriate resources for their various local outreach activities. Lydia will keep the group informed on advances made within the opioid and other substance use materials from NLM and other reliable agencies.
Adjournment	Lydia Collins adjourned the meeting at 3:05 pm	Lydia will send out a notice to set up the next CH SAG meeting in 2018.
